

Introduction to Control Networks

- Data networks interconnect computers, servers, and printers
- Control networks connect sensors, actuators, displays, and other machines to each other, to remote monitoring and control sites, and to the Internet
 - All control networks perform a common set of functions: they sense, process, actuate, and communicate